

October 25, 2006

For Immediate Release:

ANNIE SIMS' "STARS" SHINE AT COUNTRY WEEKLY

LOVE STORY BEHIND HER LATEST SINGLE REVEALED IN "THE SCOOP!"

(NASHVILLE, TN.) - Aspirion Records songbird, Annie Sims, is "Scooped" in the November 6 edition of Country Weekly – on stands now. Proclaiming it a "heart-tugging ballad, delivered stunningly by Annie," the magazine reveals the story behind Sims' recording of the romantic song, "Eighty Acres of Stars." The Scoop! details that the song was co-written by Richard Leigh, who penned the career-defining "Don't It Make My Brown Eyes Blue" for Crystal Gayle. And it tells how Sims was so moved by "Eighty Acres" – the true story of Leigh's proposal to his wife, Shannon – that she not only recorded the song for her Half the Moon CD, but also shot the video on Leigh's farm – the real-life setting of the love story.